Getting Started: Your First Steps

Choosing Your Starter

When you boot Pokémon Yellow, the first decision you'll face is choosing your starter Pokémon. The options are:

- Charmander – Fire type, great for early Water and Rock types.
- Squirtle – Water type, excels against Fire and Rock.
- Bulbasaur – Grass type, useful against Water, Rock, and Ground.

Each starter has its own strengths and weaknesses, but the game's narrative is slightly tailored toward Charmander. If you prefer a balanced team, consider choosing a starter that complements the types you'll encounter early on.

Setting Up Your Game Boy

Before diving into the adventure, ensure your Game Boy is fully charged or connected to a power source. Load Pokémon Yellow, and when the title screen appears, press Start to begin. The game will prompt you to create a name for your character and choose a gender. Remember, the gender selection will affect certain dialogue lines but not gameplay.

Initial Items and Pikachu

At the start of the game, you'll receive a Poké Ball, a Potion, and a Pokégear. The Pokégear is an essential item that allows you to check your inventory, view your Pokémon's stats, and access the in-game map. After leaving Pallet Town, you'll meet Professor Oak, who will give you a Poké Ball and the first hint about Pikachu's role in the story.

Early Game: Routes, Trainers, and Items

Route 1 – The First Battle

Leaving Pallet Town, you'll walk along Route 1. The first encounter is a simple Trainer battle against a Grass-type Pokémon. This battle serves as a tutorial, teaching you the basics of turn order, move selection, and the importance of type advantages.

Tip: Use a Bug Catcher if you have one, but if not, a normal Poké Ball will suffice. Make sure to keep your Pokémon's HP high by using Potions when needed.

Route 2 – Meeting Your First Trainer

On Route 2, you'll face a Trainer with a Wartortle. This is your first real test of strategy. The Wartortle is a Water type, so a Fire-type move from your starter will have an advantage. If you're playing as a Grass starter, consider using a Vine Whip for a type advantage.

Item Discovery: Pokégear and Poké Radar

While exploring Route 2, you'll find a Poké Radar in a cave. This device allows you to locate hidden items and Pokémon. Use it to find hidden Poké Balls and other useful items. It also reveals the location of the Pokégear if you're missing it.

Key Items: Poké Ball, Potion, and Pokégear

- Poké Ball – Essential for catching Pokémon.
- Potion – Restores 20 HP. Use it strategically during battles.
- Pokégear – Gives you a map and a quick inventory check.

Encountering Pikachu

The hallmark of Pokémon Yellow is the animated Pikachu that follows you. After you defeat the first Trainer on Route 2, you'll receive a letter from Professor Oak asking you to meet him in the town of Viridian. Once you arrive, a Pikachu will appear and start following you around. Pikachu is a normal type but has a powerful move, Thunder Shock, that can be useful early on.

First Battle: The Pokémon League

Before heading to the Pokémon League, you'll need to collect the Pokémon Badge from the first Gym Leader. The route to the first Gym is straightforward, but you'll need to navigate the forest and a few caves to reach it. Keep an eye on the map for hidden items and use your Pokégear to avoid getting lost.

Team Building: Choosing and Training Your Pokémon

Building a Balanced Team

A balanced team is the backbone of any successful Pokémon Yellow run. Aim for a mix of types to cover weaknesses:

- Starter Pokémon – Your core, often a Fire, Water, or Grass type.
- Electric Type – Pikachu or another Electric type for Water and Flying types.
- Rock/Steel Type – For handling Ground, Flying, and Ice types.
- Ice Type – Useful against Dragon, Flying, Grass, and Ground.
- Psychic Type – Covers Fighting and Poison.

Leveling Up Efficiently

To level up quickly, focus on battles that offer the highest experience points. Use the Pokégear to track experience and identify which Pokémon need the most training. Remember, experience points are not always proportional to the number of battles; the type of opponent and the move used can affect the experience gained.

Movesets: Choosing the Right Moves

When your Pokémon learns new moves, prioritize those that provide type coverage. For example:

- Charmander – Flamethrower for powerful fire damage.
- Squirtle – Hydro Pump for high damage.
- Bulbasaur – Solar Beam for strong Grass attacks.
- Pikachu – Thunderbolt for powerful Electric attacks.

Item Management: Potions, Antidotes, and Rare Candies

Keep a balanced inventory of healing items. The Antidote is essential for curing poison, while the Rare Candy can be a game-changer for leveling a Pokémon by a single level. Use Rare Candies sparingly on Pokémon that are close to a level cap or need a quick boost before a Gym battle.

Gym Leaders: Strategies and Tips

Gym 1 – Brock (Rock Type)

Brock's gym in Pewter City features Rock, Ground, and Flying types. If you're playing as a Water or Grass starter, you'll have an advantage. Pikachu's Thunderbolt is also effective. Keep your Pokémon's HP high with Potions and use Rock Smash if you have a Fire or Ground type move.

Gym 2 – Misty (Water Type)

Misty's gym in Cerulean City focuses on Water, Ground, and Rock types. If you're playing as a Grass starter, you'll have a type advantage. Use Vine Whip or Leaf Blade to take down Misty's Pokémon quickly. Pikachu can also be useful for its Electric moves against Water types.

Gym 3 – Lt. Surge (Electric Type)

Lt. Surge's gym in Vermilion City features Electric types. A strong Ground type move is essential. If you're playing as a Grass starter, use Vine Whip or Leaf Blade to deal heavy damage. Pikachu should be used carefully, as its Electric moves are ineffective against Electric-type Pokémon.

Gym 4 – Erika (Grass Type)

Erika's gym in Celadon City features Grass types. Use a Fire type move such as Flamethrower or Fire Blast. If you have a Water starter, this will also be an advantage. Keep your Pokémon's HP high and use Thunderbolt from Pikachu to finish off any remaining Grass-type Pokémon.

Gym 5 – Koga (Poison Type)

Koga's gym in Fuchsia City focuses on Poison types. A Ground or Psychic type move is effective. Use Earthquake if you have a Ground-type Pokémon or Psychic if you have a Psychic-type Pokémon. Keep an eye on your Pokémon's status and use Antidotes if needed.

Gym 6 – Sabrina (Psychic Type)

Sabrina's gym in Saffron City features Psychic types. A strong Ice or Rock type move is recommended. If you're playing as a Water starter, use Hydro Pump or Surf to deal high damage. Keep your Pokémon's HP high and use

Thunderbolt from Pikachu to finish the battle.

Gym 7 – Brawly (Fighting Type)

Brawly's gym in Cinnabar Island focuses on Fighting types. A Flying or Psychic type move is effective. Use Fly if you have a Flying-type Pokémon or Psybeamif you have a Psychic-type Pokémon. Keep your Pokémon's HP high and use Thunder
